1. Christian fiction is branching into many genres these days. Your novel is classified as “mom-lit.” What exactly is mom-lit?
2. How is mom-lit different when written from a Christian worldview?
3. Becky escapes the pressure to be a Marvelous Mom and Wonderful Wife through her vivid daydreams—everything from fighting pirates to being an Olympic gymnast. Which was your favorite to write, and why?
4. Becky goes through a lot of struggles. Her husband is laid off from his job, her son needs a surgery they can't afford, she loses her volunteer position at her church, her sister flaunts her successful career in Becky's face, and other challenges face her that I don't want to give away. How do these struggles affect her faith life?
5. One of the central themes in The Secret Life of Becky Miller is that she is so busy trying to do Something Big for God that she can't see how her ordinary life is making a difference. What are some of the reasons Christian women today put this kind of pressure on themselves?
6. How real is Becky Miller? How much is based on your own life, or the lives of women you know?
7. You've shared that you are also a wife and mom. How do you find time to write novels?
8. What do you hope readers will take away from spending a few hours in the pages of The Secret Life of Becky Miller?
